

KIM, DoHoon teaches “Korean Economic Development” and “Industrial Eco-system in East Asia” at GSIS (Graduate School of International Studies), Sogang University.

He was former president of the Korea Institute for Industrial Economics and Trade (KIET) from May 2013 to May 2016. Before being appointed as president of KIET, he worked as director of several research divisions in KIET, such as division of current survey and forecasting, division of industrial policy and division of industrial cooperation and globalization and served as vice president for research, spanning the years from 1979 through May 2013.

He was detached from KIET to work for the OECD in Paris as principal administrator at the trade directorate from September 1997 to September 1999. He worked for IERI at University of Washington as a visiting scholar. He served as president of a couple of Korea’s academic associations including KSRS (Korea Society of Regulatory Studies). He has been also member for many policy advisory committees in various government bodies such as the commission for corporate partnership, the advisory committee for FTA policy and the advisory council for budget policy.

He directed the project for establishing ‘The basic plan for 2010 World Expo in Yeosu’ and took part in bidding activities, and also directed the project for establishing ‘The basic plan for 2012 World Expo in Yeosu’.

His major publications include “Six Decades of Korea’s Industrial Development, KDI, December 2010” and “An Impact Analysis of the Korea-US FTA and Korea-EU FTA on Korea’s Manufacturing Industries, KIET, December 2011” and “Regulatory Reform in the era of Knowledge-based Economy, KIET, December 2002”.